Julian Opie

b. 1958, London

Lives and works in London

Julian Opie practice delves into the idea of representation and the means by which images are perceived and understood through reinterpreting the language of everyday life. With a reductive style, the artist draws influence from classical portraiture, Egyptian hieroglyphs, Japanese woodblock prints, public signage, information boards and traffic signs. Julian works with various cutting edge, but also with traditional techniques, to demonstrate a visual and spatial experience.
